

Goofy Sh*t

First off, this is fair warning to all that offensive language might be used and the topic is somewhat off color for some.

Secondly, I wish to apologize for the use of the word Sh*t in the title. I do hope that it does not offend anyone reading but there is a point to all of this.

Thirdly, I have come to realize, through my years of studying Abraham Hicks, that if this article offends you, this is your sh*t and has nothing to do with me.

Finally, I have run this past my lawyer and since he desires more of my money, he said, "sure Wayne, post this in The Magic Happens Magazine".

It has taken me almost 55 years of my 900 hundred year life, to figure out actually what my role is on this planet. Yes, you read it correctly... I intend to be around for another 845 years spreading my word, my role, my fun, my brilliance and further more my love to everyone. That's my intention and I do know that it is a done deal, and it sticks, no matter what.

Okay, back to the topic at hand. Many moons ago, I was very fortunate to see a very funny comedian named George Carlin on several occasions. You know the guy, 'The hippie dippie weather man,' the seven deadly words that can not be said on television, among other great classics.

During one of his concerts, he said, "My job is to think up goofy sh*t and report it back to you folks at my concerts". Somehow, that line has always stuck with me.

So, from this point in my life and each day forward, I will take it upon myself to fill this role to the best of my ability and do whatever it takes to report back to all you faithful readers all the Goofy Sh*t I can think of.

Without further delay, here is my report for this issue:

The other day, my partner Kat and I were discussing, of all things, the amount of sh*t that we expel from our bodies on a daily basis. No, there was no alcohol involved, just a curious topic that went way over board.

Please do not get me wrong, I am an upstanding citizen, a co-founder of several online communities, a retired corporate executive, and even an author. Also, I am one who creates websites, banners and logos, and one who is an all round happy and very connected to source.

Anyway; did you realize that the average amount of excrement that we expel, on a daily basis is approximately equivalent to half a pound? Of course for some of us, it may be a few times a day and others, every couple of days. Also, the weight may vary according to each individual. I was just coming up with an average for argument sake.

Now let us assume that our average life is 100 years long. Sure some will be shorter and others like me, will be longer (refer back to paragraph number five). Okay, so we have about half a pound of poop leaving us on a daily basis. That equals to some where in the neighborhood of 182.5 pounds per year, give or take a few pounds, including leap years. LOL

Now over a lifetime, see above, that equates to 18,250lbs of waste from each of us. Translated from American measures to metric, it is 8,391Kg. of waste or back in American terms around 9.25 tons of crap. WOW, are we full of it or what? DO the math for yourself, this is all true.

So my friends, when someone actually says to you, that you are full of crap, you can respond by saying 'yes and thank you for the reminder, I remember reading that in The Magic Happens Magazine.' ;-)

I am off to eat my cabbage casserole and to think of other goofy sh*t to report back to you here. Have an awesome day everyone.
