

Wayne's Note:

Spring is in the air with the blossoming of new and creative concepts for this magazine. The quiet winter season is behind us now and it is time for me to expand my thoughts towards getting out more without having to put on 10 layers of clothing on to go for a short walk. Remember, I live in Canada, the land of snow and cold.

For that reason alone, there is not many happenings going on but the wheels have been churning towards those hiking trails and exciting concerts coming up this warmer season. A lot has been going on behind the scenes that we are really proud of but upfront it seems really quiet.

Imagine for a minute the picture of a duck as it calmly moving across the lake but when you look under the water, the feet are moving like crazy. That is how things have been of late.

One of the major occurrences was the creation of The Magic Happens Community. I want to personally thank Kat at this point at it was mostly created by her with me adding in a few technical pieces here and there.

While Kat has been extremely busy with her creation of a community, writing many new articles and a variety Squidoo Lenses, I have found time to publish my first E-Book called, "A Beginner's Guide To Website Design". Judging by the early reviews of this specially priced e-book, it has become a hit. What a blast it was from start to finish. I have learned so much about not only writing, the marketing of, but most important to me the creative layout of e-books. I think my next e-book will be called: How to Publish an E-book, given all the things I've learned.

Here it is three months into the year and I already feel that my theme has been taken care of for this year. Really, that is no April fool's joke. My theme was one of self appreciation and wow, what can I say? I am in a total space of appreciating myself in all I do. My life has turned around a full 180 degrees. I feel wonderful, I am receiving many more connections in my life, business is growing in leaps and bounds and best of all there is a huge spring back into my body and walk. Why didn't I jump on this appreciation thing so much earlier in my life?

I can not speak for all you who are reading but being a part of this magazine has really brought a tremendous amount of focus and fun into my life. I do so appreciate all the contributors that are willing to share their own musings and experiences so that we can all move forward.

Can life get any better than this???

Peace and Love
