

Just a Thought...

by Annette Aben

Her bare white trunk and branches spoke of winter's glory with her green crown long since gone.

Even though she was surrounded by many others, she was the most noticeable for the ground itself was bereft of snow.

She seemed to take pride in her unique appearance as her limbs stretched out and up as if to say, "Come stand with me and drink in the day."

And so it was that the tree behind her rooted itself in companionship stance and the stark contrast of their colors made one imagine it was her shadow, a white tree in training, if you will.

Annette Aben says, Life is good! I believe those words and live those words. Through creativity, I find peace and balance. Because I allow myself to vary the activities, writing, drawing, painting, jewelry crafting and photography, I am always enthusiastic about what I am doing.

My furry companion, Baby, is featured in many ways in my projects. I photograph her, draw her, write about her and am so grateful to have her energy in my life. Website: <http://innerchildartwork.com>
