

Wayne's Note

There comes a time in life where things just get in the way of who I am and what I believe in for me and for this magazine.

The Winter Edition is very late this time round and I offer up my humblest apologies for this.

There are no excuses that I can offer up with all honesty. Sure I could say, data lost, computer crashed, procrastinated, illness and so. Actually the last was true but my illness only lasted for a week or so at publishing time. I throw myself out to our faithful readers and beg for the forgiveness of you all. I offer a heartfelt sorry to all the contributors that wait patiently to see their articles out there for the masses to read.

All that said and done, there are some huge changes that have transpired within me and for this magazine.

First off you will notice that the main page has a new logo, not the traditional one that we normally use. It was a creation of mine from last year and it had to get to the point of sitting well with me. Now is the time where it does feel great and now it is the official logo for the magazine. Of course it will vary slightly for each season of the magazine. Your thoughts and opinions on it are greatly valued at this time.

Our theme this time round is called Fresh Perspectives. Do you know when you sit and think and or meditate about stuff you sometimes suddenly get a huge jolt of energy come into you about something new. Or, it simply could be re reading an old book and with where you are now in life you see a whole new perspective on that same book you read years back. No matter what, please take a look at a few new perspectives in our themed area of this magazine.

Once again, I offer up profound apologies to all of you for the lateness of The Magic Happens.

Peace and Love
