

Introducing... Melissa "Fing" Ward

Ah... the glory of me 😊 Having to put it down in paper seems like a daunting task because you will never really be able to describe yourself so people really know you – but I am going to give it my best shot. I'll start with the circumstances that have brought me to where I am today and hopefully you will get a sense for how I define myself.

In what seems like a lifetime ago, I was a married housewife and mother of 2 gorgeous girls. I played on my computer during nap times and envisioned a world where people can connect regardless of geographic location. Whether it is to do business or build friendships, people from across the globe would be able to talk and share their interests and stories.

Somewhere around 2000, I found myself in the middle of a divorce. I had some options I needed to consider. First was to find a new house, second was to work and third was to balance all of this with raising my daughters. The house was a struggle at first as I tried to buy a small horse farm. When reality settled in, I realized that I needed to simplify my home so that I could focus on the other two tasks at hand. Now that was settled, the income earning part needed to come to fruition. I knew that I could go back to work in corporate America, making my guaranteed income and getting my health benefits. My other option was to design a career around a life that allowed me to put my two girls on the bus every morning and explore the World Wide Web. I went for option B.

My friends and family thought I was nuts. Not only was I leaving a man who had great earning potential, I was leaving a huge home taking only a few pieces of furniture with me, my clothes and my car.

To top it off I had the audacity to start my own business instead of “getting a job”.

There is not a day from that point to now, that I regret the choices I made. I had a vision; correction, I HAVE a vision. I know what I want to do in my career, how I want to raise my children, and the lifestyle that I want to thrive in. It is through sheer grit and determination and never losing sight of that vision that I am where I am and who I am today. The learning that I still experience about the world, people, myself, and the never ending possibilities keeps me enthusiastic and down right ecstatic about my life.

There is a word I use when I am in doubt or feel that I have reached a wall... it is More. No matter what you have, there is more. No matter how much love you have in your life, there is always more. No matter how happy you are there is always MORE! Holy cow! Does it really get any better than that?

Whatever it is that you have and whatever your goals are there is always:

- More abundance
- More happiness
- More love
- More stuff
- More people
- More experiences
- More learning
- More LIFE!

Thinking about more doesn't make you greedy nor does it mean that you are not content with what you have. You can be completely satisfied with your life and still want More.

What's even more fabulous is that when you are truly grateful for what you have now and can still envision the More ... More shows up!

Little did I know that I was practicing what is now commonly referred to as the Law of Attraction. It wasn't until 2006 that I was introduced to The Secret and the Powerful Intentions Community. Through the people that I met there, my life has only gotten bigger and better. When the student is ready, the teacher arrives. No truer statement has ever been made. At each point in my life and in building my web development firm the right people have always come into my life and helped in some way. Through Powerful Intentions I have met a plethora of people who have helped me to expand my own horizons, see greater possibilities and continue to break new ground both personally and professionally.

I am more than just a web developer, I consider myself to be an Internet Master. I help my clients to create their vision, put that vision in two dimensional graphic form, and help them to build a social network of potential customers and clients to connect to. I LOVE my job! There is nothing more exciting than seeing the spark in someone's eye when they are describing an idea for a business that they are truly passionate about. Their voice quivers, their eyes get all wide and they are talking with their whole body. I know when someone is describing something that truly resonates with who they are and it's a complete turn on for me to be a part of it.

I also enjoy helping people to realize their true passions. Sometimes ideas come and go with little impact or action. New business owners need to realize that if they are working on something that they are truly passionate about, the money will follow. I've had the pleasure of interviewing several people who have come into their own by following their passions.

Some have hit material success, some have not. But they are all happy and feel abundant.

You can listen to these interviews at Phenomenal Entrepreneurs. I hope you find them as inspiring as I do.

I know I've jumped around a lot here – but I at least wanted to get in some of the larger points of my life so you have an inkling of who I am. I look forward to our continued conversation in future issues of The Magic Happens.

Oh... I should explain the title. It's a nickname that a friend of mine gave to me when I was feeling less than I am. He said to me, there is no one else in the universe like you, you are far more powerful than you know – Hell you are Melissa Fing Ward and don't you ever forget it. Thanks Larry – I won't. 😊
