

Wayne's Note

I wish first off to say a huge hello to all the faithful readers here at The Magic Happens. I do so appreciate each and everyone you for taking a step forward and creating the magic that you are destined to be a part. Life can be so magical if you take those initial baby steps to create your stuff rather than listen to what someone else desires you to do. I hope you will draw bits of information from the magazine that you will take away to your personal sandbox for future use. I know I do and I love it.

Here it is the fall edition of The Magic Happens, my favorite time of the year. You must remember that I live in Canada and sometimes the weather is very beautiful and at other times, it totally sucks. From the extreme humidity to the extreme freeze, I firmly believe that the ultimate weather is the cool nights, warm days of the fall, not too mention all the exotic colors.

As the Canadian Thanksgiving is just around the corner and our neighbors to the south celebrating in November, it is truly a time of the year to send out thanks. Please take a moment to give thanks and gratitude for all the amazing connections in your life.

So here, we present the fall edition. This edition once again brings forth many magical tales from all the contributors involved. Speaking of which I wish to send a personal invitation out to any reader that feels they would like to contribute to this magazine., please feel free to connect with me at anytime. I would love to talk to anyone interested in such a small but very inspiring adventure. We really do not bite and are just as human as everyone else. S

Onto this month's theme as we do for every edition. This time around the authorities if there is such a statement has decided upon "Stepping into Confidence". When we actually choose to take control of whom and what we are. We are stepping up to the plate of life or into our own confidence. When the word authorities get used, it actually means the few people that pull this free magazine together. LOL If you as a reader have any suggestions as to what content should be placed here, please feel free to fill our brains with new information. Your views and thoughts would be inspiring to help grow this magazine to new levels.

Life just keeps amazing me in all that I do. My level of existence in this physical form continues to grow exponentially at a speed that often scares me. As we steadily put our selves out there to new possibilities/experiences, all else around us benefits from a piece of it. Find that little peace/piece and follow it.

May your beacon of light within you shine upon the many that you cross paths with each day. Until the New Year Edition, I wish you all nothing but much Love, Light and Blessings. Tapping my heart and chest, I so appreciate all of you within my being.

Peace and Love
Wayne
